SUMMARY

Justin is a senior finance major at The University of Tampa where he maintains a balance between his academic course work, and his entrepreneurial spirit. At the age of 20 Justin has already launched two companies from his dorm room, secured a registered trademark with the United States Trademark and Patient Office, toured the northeast speaking with over 50,000 students, parents, and teachers about the dangers of cyberspace, and traveled to the far reaches of Africa on a mission trip to help underprivileged children. After graduating Justin plans to pursue a career in financial engineering where he can combine his interests in complex systems, and computer programming with his financial degree.

Justin is a decisive innovator and change catalyst with a demonstrated record of creative idea generation, solution-focused problem solving, and organizational transformation.
